

Sourcetop Launch

A back-end solution that's got your back.

For advertising, branding and design clients seeking a purely executional approach and domain expertise, we present Sourcetop Launch. A turnkey solution delivered by production experts who completely understand design.

Sourcetop Launch has everything you need to get from great concept to going live, quickly. It comprises the back-end production expertise with a proven, feature-rich CMS that allows for and enhances the unique branding within each project. Combining a library of ready-to-use plugins with custom development support, it's an out-of-the-box solution that gets you up and running right away.

Cutting edge, not cookie-cutter.

Templates, we feel, are just that: temps. So we don't use them. Similarly, if you want freeware and/or freelancers, you're free to choose that option. But not here.

Here, you get the technology, the time and the technique applied rigorously in order to realize your vision. Skilled people and software deployed to bring practicality to what's possible. Bringing input and implementation – not interpretation – to your creativity. Whatever the budget.

Professionally proven.

The Sourcetop team has collaborated successfully on numerous projects with major brands, including IBM, Nestle and Unilever. These same experts have developed and perfected this software solution over the last three years, a package that aggregates the advantages of New York project management, lower daily expenses, turnkey systems and a genuinely world-class CMS.

The result is a distinctive, sophisticated solution that lets companies compete at a highly professional level, in an extremely cost-effective manner. Available for a fraction of the price of other world-class CMS packages, and providing the programming and structural expertise missing from freeware, Sourcetop Launch offers a fast-track from concept to launch that doesn't cut corners – just costs.
